

Project, Portfolio and Programme Management

Providing end-to-end support for the entire lifecycle of your projects, portfolios and programmes.

Our team helps you prioritise, mobilise and manage your projects, portfolios and programmes.

Benefit from our extensive Project, Portfolio and Programme Management experience.

The scale and pace of change required to succeed in business is increasing. As a result, organisations must invest in their businesses. We are ideally placed to help your organisation deliver key changes through our wealth of project, portfolio and programme management experience.

Organisational change is a constant in today's world, whether driven by customers, markets or technology. However, despite the increasing level of investment in change programmes, a large number fail to deliver.

This is often caused by the absence of a coordinated strategic approach to planning and delivery of projects.

By establishing a solid project management foundation in your organisation, you'll be equipped to deliver all programmes within your portfolio effectively.

Grant Thornton possess a unique blend of project, portfolio and programme management skills, tools and techniques to deliver success on your important projects.

Grant Thornton's Project, Portfolio and Project Management (PPM) team is ideally placed to help you achieve your goals.

Our team:

- can help you effectively manage your projects, large or small, in a controlled manner while tracking progress against key performance indicators and targets;
- has the experience, personnel, skills and tool sets to deliver bespoke solutions that are tailored specifically to meet your needs;
- combine strategic thinking and leverage our global expertise to deliver practical management while remaining cognisant of national and international conditions; and
- can work with your organisation to develop a portfolio of projects/programmes which are of the most strategic benefit using our tailored approach and methodology.

The team includes professionals drawn from a variety of industry backgrounds. This gives us greater insights into the challenges facing our clients and allows us to work with them in a truly collaborative way.
